Business Model

IT Projects Development

Time and Material is the best choice for those R&D (research and development) projects where the overall amount of the required development effort cannot be predicted

Fixed Cost pricing model is suitable for projects with a known scope, or those projects where changes in the business environment do not affect the project's functionality

Outstaffing Dedicated Team

A Dedicated Team is a group of developers with a set of specific skills who meet the project and business requirements and are based at our offshore production center

- works as a natural extension of your own IT department
- follows your processes and best practices
- you maintain full control over the team, we provide supervision
- knowledge retention and understanding of the nature and specifics of your business
